Modern education pundits have often commented that education in general and particular is deeply in love with keeping things as they are. This view holds no bearing at AAMU. The College of Education, Humanities and Behavioral Sciences is exceptionally adept at developing the will for perfection among its students, however varied their backgrounds or level of preparation. Many of the state’s award-winning teachers have been affiliated with this AAMU college. Moreover, vast culture and fine arts are contained within its many offerings.
